THE TRUTH ABOUT MICHELLE & THE FAKE ROOM SERVICE BILL

Another false email smear is turning up in inboxes across the country spreading incorrect information about Michelle based on a completely fake room service bill. The smear inaccurately claims Michelle dined on lobster and caviar at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel on October 15th.

The truth is, the incident never happened. Michelle was not even staying at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The New York Post had a bad source and has since retracted the story.

What's more, Michelle was not even in New York at the time of the incident. Rather, she was on a plane heading away from a campaign event in Fort Wayne, Indiana where she spoke.

Snopes.com has also debunked this smear – giving it a status rating of “False.”

We don't know much about the author behind this email smear, but we do know that smears like this are part of a broader, shadowy strategy to scare people who aren't very familiar with Michelle by spreading anonymous, false information.

Fight back with the truth: make sure anyone who sees this smear also sees this site. Together we can make sure these negative and divisive attacks don't affect this election.
